NEW TEQUILA BRAND WINS SIX INTERNATIONAL SPIRIT AWARDS IN 2019

100% agave copper pot still Extra Añejo catches the attention of tequila experts

[WARM RIVER, IDAHO, September 2019] - Tequila aficionados are raising their glasses to an up and coming brand that has been creating quite a buzz.

Volans Ultra Premium Tequila is from the region of Los Altos in Jalisco, Mexico and has been honored with six international spirit awards so far this year. This makes Volans one of the most awarded Extra Añejo Tequila of the year - and it's only September.

At the Sip Awards in Irvine, California from May 4th-May 27th, Volans was awarded Platinum distinction in the Agave Tequila Extra Añejo category. Now in their 11th year, these awards welcome consumer judges to determine the winners. This means the contest is unaffected by industry bias, as it allows the public to choose their favorites.

Volans also picked up Gold at the San Diego Wine Challenge - scoring a total of 93 points. Additionally, in March the Idaho-based tequila maker picked up a Gold Medal at the Denver Spirits Competition for their oak-barrel-aged spirit.

This award winning Extra Añejo also received Gold at the LA Spirits Competition, plus a Silver Medal at the San Francisco World Spirits Competition. Finally, this tequila won a Silver Medal at the New York International Spirits Competition - with a score of 92 points.

What makes this multi-award-winning tequila stand out? First of all, it is an Extra Añejo tequila - which means it is aged for a minimum of three years. Volans is made from 100% Blue Weber Agave. This agave is harvested at the peak of maturity and the cogollo (shoot) is cut out - to avoid the waxy taste and makes the agave juice sweeter.

Then, it's slow cooked for 22 hours in a masonry stone oven - evenly from top and bottom to avoid overcooking. The water used is a mixture of deep well, rain and spring water to give just the right amount of minerality to the tequila. Aged in used American oak bourbon bottles, the Ultra Premium Extra Añejo

Tequila is lighter in color but has a balanced complexity. You will find hints of cooked agave, oak, vanilla, and pitted fruit flavors. It has a rich and complex finish that pleasantly lingers.

With such love and care given to perfecting the taste, it's no wonder this ultra premium tequila has been picking up accolades and awards at so many international competitions this year.

"We are so honored that Volans Tequila has been recognized by so many International Spirit Awards this year." says Chad Allen, Volans Tequila Co-Owner. "We've spent 4 years working to bring Volans to market. Our whole goal is to bring a wonderful tequila tasting experience to you, your friends and your family. Our master distiller Felipe Camarena and all the great people at El Pandillo Distillery are true masters at their craft."
